Keep forgetting to mention this, but I saw Stoltze Monday and he made a serious point to praise Pat Galvin. He said his respect for Pat went way up, watching him carry ACES and just putting his head down...getting things done...being available...and open...and believable. He was highly impressed with him.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

No. 07-234

Governor Palin Unveils Permanent Fund Savings Plan

$2.4 billion deposit to PF principal

December 5, 2007, Anchorage, Alaska - Governor Sarah Palin today proposed to deposit $2.4 billion from the Permanent Fund earnings reserve to the Permanent Fund principal.

"This would be the largest single year deposit into the Permanent Fund," Governor Palin said. "This will have a direct impact on every single Alaskan."

The proposal would increase the constitutionally established fund, now worth more than $41 billion, that distributes annual payments to qualified Alaskans. More than $2 billion would remain in the earnings reserve.

The announcement was included in the details of a two-year $7.1 billion savings plan that reaffirmed the governor's commitment to save for the future.

Governor Palin also released the results of the Voices Across Alaska survey, an online survey where Alaskans shared opinions on how the state surplus should be saved and invested. More than 10,000 participated in the web survey.

"We are celebrating a milestone in Alaska's history - an opportunity to save for the future and work toward a more predictable budget that will help every Alaskan deal with the very real challenges of living in our Great Land," said Governor Palin.

Using the survey results as a general guideline, the two-year savings plan calls for:

* Investing $2.6 billion in the Education Fund to help fund public education in the future.

* Governor Palin also proposes to deposit $2.4 billion from the Permanent Fund earnings reserve to the Permanent Fund principal.

* Creating a $1 billion fund whose earnings would be used for future transportation infrastructure.

* Depositing $450 million in funds from the FY08 surplus into TRS to reduce the unfunded liability and provide future savings in the State's required contributions to TRS.

* Replenishing the Constitutional Budget Reserve with $379 million.

* Investing $250 million in an alternative energy fund. This fund would be used for energy projects recommended by a strategic energy plan, which could include hydroelectric, wind, geothermal, biomass and tidal power.

The FY 09 Operating and Capital Budgets will be released in Anchorage next week.

Dear Governor Sarah Palin,

I am writing to let you know how pleased I am with the HRC Learning Center in Palmer, Alaska. I am a Alaska high school dropout that recently decided to get my General Education Diploma to further my education. The staff at HRC was very welcoming and helpful. I live in a remote village and had to drive over 100 miles on a regular basis to get the study information that I needed. Glory and Tim went well out of their way to see that I had all the study information I needed and did a great job with helping me receive my General Education Diploma..

I encourage you to make sure that this program is well funded. Their highly motivated staff, good educational resources, and easy-going learning environment make the chances of someone successfully completing the program very high. I dropped out in the ninth grade and received my GED in one and a half months. I look forward to going on to college at UAA and serving the state of Alaska with a good education.

It is important to make sure that programs like HRC receive good funding from the state because they improve the community by helping Alaskans further their educations. I am very grateful for the HRC Learning Center and thank you for having such programs available.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Robinson

Please take into consideration the budget to fix/maintain the Service High School pool. Keeping our children involved in swimming is a healthy perspective. This year, we had 88 students on the swim team. They bonded and became not just athletes competing, but a network of friends who became one huge loving, supportive family. We did have to share pool time with South, which really was sad and hard on the parents with the practice times differing. The Parks and Recreation need funds to invest in the future of our kids- repair and maintain the Service pool. I would rather have my kid on the swim team, rather than in trouble on the streets. Essentially, it could be detrimental to kids staying on the team if they got even less pool time to have to stack 3 or 4 schools over at East or West pools since Bartlett is also on the chopping block. Our kids want to swim - please fix the pool, adjust the budget to make this a priority. I sincerely would appreciate your consideration. Cindy

We have a hard time getting hockey players (let alone basket ball players) after they've seen the facilities in the other states in the leagues. The University has been trying to do this for years, and it still has not happened. The Sullivan Arena (whether its the Alaska Aces or Seawolves) roof leaks every spring let alone many other major issues in that facility..........I would love to see the monies go where it is need to bring up our youth and keep them busy and out of trouble and IN SCHOOL.

I noticed Mike Burns didn't get to talk at the press conference and the press forgot to ask him the $2.4 billion question (about PF analysis and why the PFC thinks it's safe to transfer $2.4 billion back into the corpus). He had a sheaf of papers with him so I suspect he was ready.

Nevertheless, if you can arrange it I think it would be a nice touch for you to call and thank him or for the governor too. A little affirmation there goes a long way--he came suited up for the game but had to stay on the bench. Might be good to acknowledge the effort. Dear Governor Palin,

I would like to extend my sincere wishes for joy, peace and happiness for you, your parents and your immediate family during the Christmas holiday season in Alaska. I also would like to extend my sincere wishes for joy, peace, and happiness for your son, Track, while he is currently serving as a soldier in the United States Army.

I do not know if you and your family will be able to spend Christmas day this year in person with your son while he is serving as a soldier in the United States Army.

If you and your family are unable to spend Christmas day in person with your son, while he is currently serving in the Army, please do not feel sad or disappointed. The great love, pride and care that you and your family have for Track will always be inside your heart.

I also know your son will feel the exact same love, pride and care in his heart for you and your family. Those strong emotional feelings for personal family will always keep you, your family and your son feeling close to each other, no matter how far apart you are from each other during the holidays.

Having been a soldier trainee myself in the United States Army for only six months at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri (while attending my basic combat training) in 2005, I know exactly how difficult and challenging it must be for your son to be away from his family and friends that he cares about so very much, especially during the holidays.

Serving as a soldier in the United States Army is never easy. Dedicating yourself towards the accomplishment of important national goals and achievements in the United States requires a very strict moral code of honor, integrity, loyalty, dedication, selfless-service and respect for other people.

Only the most highly noble and dedicated people in the world can do something like that in the United States, and both yourself and your son are two such people who have repeatedly accomplished that task every day. You and your son should both feel very proud and know that the people of Alaska are very proud of you in return.

Governor Palin, I would also like to express my sincere congratulations on your first successful year in public office as the governor of the state of Alaska. Since December 4, 2006, you have made many numerous and wonderful accomplishments for both the state of Alaska and for the United States of America as a whole nation.

You have much to be proud of with your professional accomplishments as governor of the state of Alaska. However, I personally feel that the greatest accomplishment you have achieved as a parent in 2007 (beyond raising your daughters on a daily basis) was the day that your son, Track, chose to enlist into active service with the United States Army.

Although many people living in Alaska might have forgotten about your son's courageous choice to enlist in the United States Army earlier this year, I want you to know that I havé not forgotten about your son's enlistment in the Army.

As an honorable United States Army veteran, I have not forgotten what your son's professional service as an American soldier means to the United States of America. I will never forget because I am a soldier, I am an Army veteran and I am an American citizen.

I have also enjoyed visiting your official state of Alaska public online website at http://gov.state.ak.us/index.php. I enjoy exploring the many wonderful and highly informative pages on your website while reading about all of your current professional accomplishments as governor of Alaska.

In the "Exxon Supreme Court Decision" photograph, that was taken inside your office in Juneau, Alaska, on October 29, 2007, I noticed in the upper right corner of the photograph that there is a small red and white flag with a single blue star in the middle of it that is hanging in your office window.

As a United States Army veteran, I immediately recognized the flag in your office window as a representation and a reminder of your son, Track, and his current service as a soldier in the United States Army. Upon first seeing the flag in the photograph, I felt much honored pride as an Army veteran.

The reason I felt much honored pride as an Army veteran is because you have chosen, as a parent, to greatly honor and remember your son and his current service as an American soldier by hanging in your office window a flag with a single blue star in the middle of it.

As governor of Alaska, you may or may not be aware that the seven Army values today are loyalty, duty, respect, selfless-service, honor, integrity and personal courage. As a United States Army veteran, I always live these high moral values today in my personal life, even though I am no longer an active soldier in the United States Army.

I am also strongly dedicated to always searching for the truth and I strongly believe in the self-preservation of democracy, freedom of speech and freedom of self-expression, plus all of the other personal rights and freedoms that every American citizen is granted today.

For the past 35 years, I have dedicated myself to doing a lifetime of good deeds from Alaska to Missouri. During those 35 years I have been a Cub Scout and a Junior Volunteer Firefighter in Big Lake Alaska, a five-year volunteer with the Homer Chamber of Commerce in Homer, Alaska, and a Boy Scout in Lake Tahoe, California and a soldier trainee in the United States Army for six months.

I have also never once violated the law in my entire life and I have never once had to stand in a real court room before an official judge or a jury. I have dedicated most of my personal life trying to help other people as a volunteer and also offer my positive and encouraging support by email and regular postal letters to politicians, American military soldiers, and private American citizens and news media journalists from Alaska to The White House in Washington, D.C.

I have always done these kinds of things because I honestly believe in the greater good of American society. I honestly believe in the U.S. Constitution and the Bill of Rights. I honestly believe in always doing the right thing and I have never once wavered or faltered in those same strong personal beliefs that make me who I am today as an individual and as an American citizen.

The reason I am sharing all of this with you is not because I am seeking personal praise, or respect, or special recognition. I am sharing with you this information about me in case you might be wondering who I am and why I always enjoy being kind, supportive, respectful and helpful to complete strangers.

I hope you and your family have a very Merry Christmas and a happy and wonderful New Year for 2008. Please keep up the excellent work that you do every day as the Governor of Alaska. Thank you for taking the time to read my letter and allowing me to share with you my thoughts.

Sincerely,

Scott Alan Ungerecht

The National Conference of Commissioners on the Uniform State Laws Commission develops and promotes uniform and model laws across state lines covering a wide range of subjects. The Conference interstate commerce and is represented by each state.

Retired Justice Bryner previously held the Supreme Court Representative to the Conference. The 5 Justices together choose the appointee, but it goes to the Governor's office to make the appointment. Speaking with Nizich, this is the normal process and it is non-controversial.

The Supreme Court Justices have selected Justice Walter Carpeneti to replace Bryner as the Supreme Court appointee.

If you agree, we'll send the letter appointing Justice Carpeneti to fill Bryner's spot on this Commission.

Unfortunately I missed most of the 5:00 pm news regarding the savings plan. I did catch the last 10 seconds where Bill stated Rep. Dear Governor Palin, Nice speech at the education summit. Your brother introduced himself to me. He was very nice in his comments.

For all it is worth, Speaker Harris called me on an environmental case and the Dyson letter. In the course of the conversation he said he was not too thrilled about your plan announced today to make the deposit to the PFD. That was not the focus of his conversation. However, I thought it might be of interest to you in your consideration of the steps you might take to follow through with your plan. Talis
